

1. A vote for Trump is a vote against The Constitution. Donald Trump has, on multiple occasions, dismissed, misappropriated, or outright attacked The Constitution of the United States—the very foundation of America and his Oath of office:

A. Trump has referred to part of the Constitution as “phony”²

B. In direct violation of the 10th Amendment, and mocking the very purpose of the American Revolution itself (getting rid of a “king”), Trump has claimed he has “total authority”³ later even insisting that the Constitution gives him the power to do “whatever I want”. He has repeated this authoritarian claim at least four times.⁴

C. Trump has solicited and accepted foreign interference to meddle in our domestic elections.⁵

D. Trump has repeatedly accepted gifts and money from foreign governments in direct violation of Article 1, Section 9, clause 8 of the Constitution.⁶

E. Trump continually violates the Constitutional principle of separation of powers, attempting to impair the independence⁷ of the judiciary branch (harassing several witnesses,⁸ at least three sitting judges⁹, even individual jury members), but also succeeding in supplanting the separateness of Congress: the Senate Majority Leader admitted that on pending impeachment charges against the President, the Senate would be “coordinating with White House Counsel. There will be no difference between the President’s position and our position as to how to handle this”¹⁰ and more than one senate member kowtowed that, contrary to their oath, they “would not be impartial jurors”¹¹ in that trial.¹²

F. Despite clear and direct warnings from Congress beforehand, Trump has gone ahead with several executive orders which clearly violate Article I, section 9 of the Constitution bypassing the powers of Congress.¹³

G. Trump has subverted the First Amendment by restricting, discouraging, covertly monitoring¹⁴ (against state wishes—another violation of Amendment 10’s federalism), and even outright terminating Americans’ right to assemble.¹⁵

H. Trump has openly admitted to using his constitutional pardon power, as well as awarding awards such as the medal of Freedom, as rewards to those who have donated money to him.¹⁶

2. A vote for Trump is a vote for unrivaled corruption—even against the rule of law itself:

A. Trump has used the power of the government to punish his enemies.^{17,18}

B. Not only has Trump openly asserted that he has the “absolute” right to pardon himself¹⁹ (another distortion of The Constitution), but in effect he has done so by commuting the sentence of a criminal who openly has boasted that he withheld/covered up information that would implicate President Trump in a crime. I have no words that capture this level of unprecedented corruption.

C. Trump has corrupted several institutions of the government to favor his will²⁰ over the laws of the country,^{21,22} the safety norms of the scientific community,²³ and most shockingly: steadily removing independent oversight.²⁴ Anyone who studies history or has lived in a failed state as I have, knows that this fact alone cannot be overstated in its concerning, negative impact.

D. Trump has repeatedly threatened to suspend licenses/shut down news organizations—merely for reporting the truth.²⁵ And gone after individual reporters for stories he does not like.²⁶ Trump is even on record calling free-speech opposition to him “treason”.

¹ I am not saying that Trump doesn’t do good or doesn’t have a lot of policies that I agree with—he does, and I do. But if you identify as conservative and if you love this country as I do, please vote him out of office to prove that our movement cares more about principles than temporary power. Do you really think the policies he will enact (that he probably cares about only to gain his followers’ votes, not because he actually believes them) will last when he is so abjectly offensive to anyone that crosses him? True conservatives know the way to build lasting policy changes is only through gaining the actual consent of the governed. That means being principled and consistent. Trump is neither, and we must reject him as the figurehead for the Republican cause! To believe the argument “it’s all about policy” or “it’s all about the Supreme Court” is to effectively sell our collective soul which is not worth even gaining the whole world (See Mark 8:36). Standing for PRINCIPLES is more important than 4 years of more favorable policy.

- E. Trump on multiple occasions has instructed his subordinates to break the law²⁷ including committing felonies²⁸
- F. While instructing followers to break the law, Trump promised to pardon them²⁹ (another clear corruption of The Constitution)
- G. To condone Trump's criminal acts, he and his defenders have dismissed or supported: 1) Lying to the FBI 2) Plotting to do criminal acts is acceptable so long as the act is prevented stopped before total fulfillment 3) Covering up clearly criminal acts to 'earn' a pardon, and 4) Withholding aid to other countries to receive personal benefits is one of the president's 'powers in foreign policy' (and many other self-serving positions that if adopted would turn America into not a nation of laws, but of authoritarian favoritism).
- H. Trump has repeatedly slandered and threatened witnesses, judges, even jury members involved in pending court cases³⁰ (another clear corruption of the Constitutional pillar of separation of powers)
- I. There is evidence that Trump is using the US Attorney General as his personal 'fixer'³¹ and attempting to turn the Department of Justice into a corrupted weapon of his personal agenda that will fight or shield him from any legal consequences and will pretend the guilty are innocent so long as they are friends of the president.^{32,33}

3. A vote for Trump is a vote to legitimize full-throated propaganda. Trump and his administration not only lie, but pervert the truth to such an extent that they weave a false reality.³⁴ The ability to even talk about different "points of view" is presumptive because what used to be obvious fact is now so polarizing that agreeing on "facts" devolves into e.g., either 'fake news' or gaslighting—resulting in unprecedented division, unprecedented lack of trust in government³⁵ and unprecedented chaos as well as damage to the American brand³⁶:

- A. Early fact checkers estimated that Trump would end his 4-year term saying about 7,000 falsehoods.³⁷ With time still to go until the election, he has actually said over 20,000 demonstrably false or misleading things.³⁸ This tsunami of lies is unconscionable by itself (and unprecedented), but as any seeker of truth knows: "lies fly, the truth comes limping after it." That is, the vast majority of people have neither the time nor energy to comprehensively debunk every (or any) statement and so lies by default become temptingly easy to believe. Americans need to see this and send a LOUD message that we reject propaganda and being played for fools.
- B. The White House has denied and lied about a copious number of reports that were demonstrably true³⁹
- C. Without evidence, Trump gives oxygen to legions of outrageous conspiracy theories, defying logic and perpetuating the very problem described above, of not even being able to agree on what is a fact.⁴⁰
- D. There is evidence that Trump cannot handle the truth,⁴¹ and does not hire trustworthy individuals, but rather people who will tell him what he wants to hear. He has no long-term loyalty to principles and turns on people when they have disagreements, contradicting earlier claims about their qualifications and abilities.⁴²
- E. Trump speaks out of both sides of his mouth, claiming altruism for donating his presidential salary to charity, all the while illegally funneling millions into his pockets.⁴³
- F. Trump justified keeping his tax returns hidden (and therefore much truth about his life) with the lie that he "couldn't" release them because he was "under an audit"—when #1) being under an audit would not have prevented him from releasing them,⁴⁴ and #2) still refusing to release them long after any supposed audit would have completed—playing the entire country for fools twice.
- G. On multiple occasions Trump has used subtle influence, or outright intimidation and coercion to get scientists and credible independent institutions to make false or misleading statements, change standards that fit political ambition over an unbiased scientific process, even prematurely approve drugs that later proved to be deadly⁴⁵—wholly undermining our ability to trust and act on information when lives are on the line (Ask yourself: do you know when a vaccine is coming? Are you confident that any vaccines that become available will have gone through proper procedure, free from political meddling? Nothing is safe from Trump's interference).

4. A vote for Trump is a vote against science and nonpartisan research. In a time of pandemic, it is a vote for prolonged uncertainty and unnecessary death:

- A. Trump admitted to shamelessly misleading the public⁴⁶ about what he knew about Covid-19—including how contagious and deadly it was⁴⁷, repeated false and contradictory information (creating widespread confusion that continues to this day), dismissed or downplayed⁴⁸ the seriousness of the threat (when he knew full well what he was saying was a lie), & even called the virus a “hoax.”⁴⁹
- B. It’s been estimated that if the United States had responded seriously to the threat even a week or two earlier, 83% of deaths would have been prevented, according to Columbia University.⁵⁰ As I write this, the USA has FOUR percent of the world’s population and TWENTY percent of the world’s deaths, putting the USA squarely on top in its failure to contain this threat.
- B. Even once Trump started responding to the pandemic, his response was still “an unmitigated disaster”⁵¹ marked by lack of testing (and repeatedly lying about it), embarrassingly inept priorities,⁵² promises of a quick fix (or that the virus would “magically disappear”), and a refusal to rapidly mobilize American businesses to produce enough P.P.E. for health care workers.
- C. Despite calls from every corner of the scientific & medical community, we have no national contract tracing initiative, still no effective testing system, and have lagged pathetically behind many other nations in creating (and using!) protective equipment.
- D. I blame Donald Trump personally for his bad example of not wearing a mask, for politicizing the issue of mask-wearing (thereby discouraging people in the foremost effective response), as well as downplaying other appropriate measures⁵³, and associating refusal to wear them as a badge of honor or patriotism. There is a reason America’s infection rate is so high and this is one of them.⁵⁴

5. A vote for Trump is a vote to reward and encourage politicians to put their personal interests ahead of the national interest:

- A. On a multitude of calls to foreign leaders, top Trump deputies witness that Trump was not only woefully “underprepared” but also “delusional” and “often pursued goals aligned with his own agenda rather than the national interest”⁵⁵
- B. To protect his pride or cover mistakes, Trump insults foreign leaders⁵⁶, and would arbitrarily detain Americans.⁵⁷
- C. Trump reneged background checks for gun buyers — desired by 93 percent of Americans — to please the gun lobby.
- D. Many foreign and domestic deals and negotiations are tied with donations and patronage to Trump and his entities.^{58,59}
- E. Instead of loyalty to principle, purpose, or even party, Trump demands personal loyalty,⁶⁰ creating a “cult of personality” or, as Ruth Ben-Bhiat, has said, directly acting out of the playbook of an autocrat bent on destroying democracy.⁶¹

6. A vote for Trump is a vote against common-sense leadership and wise governance:

- A. Trump does not lead. He divides. He does not even consider himself the leader of the whole country but rather only of those who support him⁶² or from whom he has something to gain.
- B. Among a leader’s principal duties is to lead clearly and inspire cooperation/unity. Trump often does the opposite: leveraging division, nursing petty grudges⁶³, and encouraging supporters to agitation and even overt violence.^{64,65}
- C. He actively sows division and leverages divisive, emotionally-charged sensitivities (such as the culture wars) for distraction, pleasure, and power.⁶⁶
- D. Trump will punish innocent Americans in the name of punishing his enemies or doing so would advance his personal interests including: 1) allegedly withheld needed resources to ‘Democrat states’ in multiple crises⁶⁷, another clear violation of the Constitution and his Presidential Oath. 2) Urged Israel to not allow two Democrats to visit the country then celebrated when Israel complied.⁶⁸ And other instances. E. He goes to absurd lengths to avoid taking responsibility. America should demand in their leader a strong sense of moral obligation, urgency, and responsibility. Trump demonstrates none of these, even willing to sacrifice American lives to advance his preferred narrative.⁶⁹

7. A vote for Trump is a vote against global peace and American leadership abroad:

A. Many of Trump’s calls to other national leaders were “such an abomination that if members of Congress knew the content, even Republicans would not have confidence in the President” according to witnesses.⁷¹

B. Trump has repeatedly been called a national security threat by government agents and agencies.⁷² Despite clear and present compromising risks, Trump’s family received special treatment for background checks and security clearances.⁷³

C. Trump shares classified information with enemies, compromising US intelligence, in addition to doing so to punish his enemies⁷⁴

D. Trump on multiple occasions has sided with hostile foreign powers above his own intelligence agencies⁷⁵

E. Trump knew that Michael Flynn was working as a foreign agent and under investigation when he hired him as National Security Advisor.

F. Trump was so prone to fits of rage due to US intelligence reports he did not like, that agents became afraid and even gave up briefing him on certain topics.⁷⁶

G. Because of Trump’s mishandling of the Coronavirus, millions of American’s passports became instantly useless as foreign countries rightly banned US travelers due to the high spread and continuous outbreaks in the country.

H. Trump has destroyed several foreign markets for American goods and services, threatened security agreements that have kept the peace for nearly three quarters of a century, offended allies who we will desperately need to face China and other long-term threats to our security and prosperity. All for no good reason other than Trump’s whim.⁷⁷

8. A vote for Trump is a vote against basic decency, against morality, and against the conservative movement being able to make a credible, non-demagogic case for governance again (weakening, in the long-term, issues like ending abortion and human trafficking⁷⁸):

A. Trump has committed hundreds of criminal⁷⁹ and morally reprehensible acts⁸⁰ (without remorse) and is simply not a moral, good person—according to a large (and growing) number of the people who work with him the closest.

B. Trump paid nearly $2 million in damages for misconduct related to using charities as political tools resulting in restrictions on Trump directing future charities and his children undergoing ethics training.⁸¹ Trump paid millions in damages to defrauded students enrolled in Trump University⁸² and undocumented workers⁸³, and preyed upon vulnerable investors to invest in sham businesses.⁸⁴

C. He has openly supported pro-Nazi demonstrators, given derogatory descriptions of immigrants, has attacked women of color in Congress, demeans descriptions of majority-black cities and even whole African countries.

D. Trump is not even conservative on fiscal policy. Not only will 2020 mark a year where the debt of the government equals the size of the entire U.S. economy,⁸⁵ but even before COVID happened Trump increased the amount America went into debt by 74% MORE than his democrat predecessor!⁸⁶ In my view, the most flagrant violation of his campaign promises and a full betrayal of conservatism.

E. His immigration⁸⁷ and family separation policy is objectively dehumanizing.

F. Trump demeans women. In addition to having over 50 sexual misconduct allegations⁸⁸, Trump is a proven serial adulterer (who has never even denounced adultery as wrong), has joked that women should prostitute themselves for his benefit--⁸⁹ and brags about violating women.⁹⁰

G. Because of Donald Trump, my child’s history class can now teach him about porn stars and paying them off (Trump confessed⁹¹).
